

Is your health department prepared to receive the Strategic National Stockpile?

For local public health agencies, a critical aspect of being ready to respond to an emergency event such as a natural disaster or bioterrorism is knowing what to do with the Strategic National Stockpile (SNS).

Is your agency...

- Writing its Response Plan?
- Developing Job Action Sheets?
- Addressing Dispensing Site Issues?
- Looking for Volunteer Recruitment & Management Information?
- Ready to Test and Exercise Your Response Plan?

Want access to tools and resources that can help?

STOCKbox is NACCHO's expanding online collection of SNS practices and tools. It contains resources developed by Preparedness Planners for Preparedness Planners to use as they prepare for the Strategic National Stockpile.

What STOCKbox can do for you...

- Free resources
- One-stop shop
- Opportunity to share best practices
- Easy access
- Searchable in multiple ways
- Assistance with locating tools

Looking for additional public health resources?

STOCKbox is just one of many toolkits available through the NACCHO Toolbox. Check out Toolbox at <http://www.naccho.org/toolbox>.

Save time by finding tools that fit your needs. Help others by sharing your best practices because good public health is worth sharing.
