

Election 2016:

What does it mean for public health?

Webinar - November 28, 2016

LaMar Hasbrouck, MD, MPH, Executive Director

Laura Hanen, Chief, Government Affairs

Eli Briggs, Senior Government Affairs Director

Welcome

- Election results may have come as a surprise
- Changing landscape, but always is with new Administration
- NACCHO's priorities remain the same
 - Being the voice for locals in DC
 - Advocating for programs and funding to strengthen HDs and communities
- You too must step up and tell your story

Overview

- One-party rule
- Public Health Opportunities
- Budget Challenges
- Prevention and Public Health Fund
- Affordable Care Act
- Medicare/Medicaid
- NACCHO Activities
- NACCHO Transition Priorities
- Take Action

One-party Rule Returns

- President-Elect Donald Trump/Vice President Mike Pence
- Republican Majority in House and Senate
- New Senate Minority Leader
 - 60 Votes Needed to Pass Most Legislation
- New Members of Congress
 - 30 Democrats
 - 26 Republicans

Public Health Opportunities

- Support for PH is bi-partisan
- Prevention Saves $$$$
- Local health departments improve economic well-being, educational success and nationwide competitiveness
- Infectious disease prevention, immunization, emergency preparedness are bipartisan issues
- Zika provides a case study of why sustained funding is needed.

Budget Caps

- Strict caps limiting spending return in FY2018
- Sequestration created “firewall” between defense and non-defense spending
- Trump plan calls for 1% cuts to non-defense for 10 years
- Programs most vulnerable are chronic disease, environmental health and family planning.
- If PPHF is eliminated, pressures on health, education and labor spending increase.

Mandatory Funding is at Risk

- Prevention and Public Health Fund provides 13% of CDC's budget in FY2016
 - Immunization, lead poisoning and other programs
- Community Health Centers
- Nurse Home Visiting Program
- State Children's Health Insurance Program

President Trump's First Budget

- FY2018 Budget Proposal expected in March/Apr. 2017
- A president's first budget lays out major policy priorities
- Trump not tied to traditional Republican interests
- Has shown willingness to “buck the tide”

Future of Affordable Care Act

- In 2015 Republicans passed and President Obama vetoed a bill to repeal parts of the ACA.
- Some possible changes in 2017:
 - Repeal individual and employer mandate
 - Roll back Medicaid expansion
 - End exchange subsidies
 - Filling in Part D donut hole
 - Ability for young adults to stay on parents' insurance
 - Pre-existing condition exclusions

Replace ACA with What?

- Allow Sale of Health Insurance Across State Lines
- Allow Individuals to Deduct Health Insurance Premiums From Taxes
- Create Health Savings Accounts (HSAs)
- Concerns from:
 - Health care industry
 - Governors
 - Employers
 - Beneficiaries of the law
- Transition/replace can take up to 2 years

Medicare/Medicaid

- Speaker Ryan's Medicare/Medicaid Roadmap
 - Rolling back Medicaid expansion
 - Block granting Medicaid to States OR per-capita cap with flexibility on eligibility, benefits, and program structure
 - Defined contribution for Medicare
 - Future of Center for Medicare/Medicaid Innovation?

Medicare/Medicaid

- Healthcare payment and delivery reform is likely to continue
- Transition from volume to value and focus on quality
- Implementation of MACRA (Medicare Access and CHIP Reauthorization Act) likely

NACCHO Transition Priorities

- Policymakers urged to support local health department capacity to:
 - Serve as chief community health strategist
 - Prepare and respond quickly to emergencies
 - Improve health for all by acting on factors outside health care
 - Protect the safety net as changes are made to health care access

NACCHO Transition Priorities

- Policymakers urged to:
 - Support the governmental public health system through funding
 - Transition the health care system to focus on population health improvement (including access to health care for all)

NACCHO Activities

- Share policy priorities with transition team
- Engage the Office of Management and Budget on FY2018 President's budget proposal
- Hill visits in January, Feb, March, and April
 - Members on Committees of Jurisdiction and Appropriations
 - All new Members
- Engage and support CDC and HHS staff throughout transition process
- Working with partners on issues of common interest

Take Action

- Get to know your Members of Congress and staff
- Work with community partners to advance public health message
- NACCHO resources:
<http://www.naccho.org/advocacy>
- Visit NACCHO's Legislative Action Center & join NACCHO's Congressional Action Network
<http://www.naccho.org/advocacy/take-action>

Discussion and Questions

Use the chat box on the right side of your screen.

Additional questions?

Contact:

Eli Briggs

Senior Government Affairs Director

ebriggs@naccho.org/202-507-4194