About NACCHO

- NACCHO, the National Association of County and City Health Officials, is comprised of nearly 3,000 local health departments (LHDs) across the country.
 - Advocacy
 - Funding
 - Training and education
 - Partnerships
 - Resources, tools, and technical assistance
- Maternal, Child, and Adolescent Health (MCAH) Portfolio
 - Prioritizing pregnant people and infants during preparedness plans and infectious disease emergencies.

Request for Applications (RFA) Overview

Demonstration Site Objectives

- View the full RFA here
- Designed to support LHDs in identifying emerging infectious disease threats that impact pregnant people and their infants and develop feasible action items to implement in their jurisdiction.
- NACCHO will award up to $20,000 to up to four health departments and will facilitate virtual action planning processes to support recipients to identify priorities for collaboration and take concrete steps to increase prioritization of pregnant people and infants over the course of the project period.

MIP Workgroup

- This funding opportunity is part of NACCHO's MCH, ID, and Preparedness (MIP) Collaborative Workgroup, which supports public health and clinical care partnerships at the local level to increase local jurisdictions' ability to protect, respond, and support pregnant people and their infants from emerging infectious disease threats.
- Selected awardees will be expected to participate in the MIP Workgroup as outlined in the Scope of Work

Eligibility to Apply

Applicants should:

- Be a local government entity working in Maternal Child Health (MCH), Infectious Disease (ID), or Emergency Preparedness and Response (EPR). “Local” here is defined as organizations working at county, city, or community levels (e.g., local health department)
- Be committed to or have already started identifying an emerging infectious disease threat(s) that impacts pregnant people and infants in their jurisdiction/should have the capacity to develop action plans to support MCH populations during emergencies
- Demonstrate the need for funding

Project Requirements and Expectations (Scope of Work)

1. Participate in a project kick-off call with NACCHO, CDC, and other awardees.
2. Complete a baseline assessment to assess MCH, ID, and EPR capacity within the LHD.
3. Design and develop a series of virtual action planning meetings with LHD staff and, if relevant, additional stakeholders.
4. Finalize an action plan.
5. Initiate implementation of the action plan.
6. Participate in the MIP Workgroup membership by attending bi-monthly workgroup meetings. Prepare to share project updates and highlights with the full workgroup at each meeting.
7. Prepare a final end-of-year project presentation for the MIP Workgroup membership.
8. Participate in NACCHO led virtual site visits upon completion of action plans.
9. Revisit the capacity assessment.
10. Participate in peer sharing and technical assistance calls facilitated by NACCHO.
11. Complete an evaluation worksheet that summarizes progress in achieving action steps and partner engagement strategy.

NACCHO Support

- NACCHO, in collaboration with CDC and consultants, will provide the following technical assistance and support to awardees:
 - Schedule and conduct check-in calls with each awardee
 - Provide opportunities for peer-to-peer networking among awarded LHDs
 - Provide technical assistance and ad-hoc individual meetings
 - Assist with strategic planning and action planning

Selection Criteria

Prioritization of Issues (20 points): Applicant demonstrates a knowledge of infectious disease threats impacting the MCH population, especially among pregnant people and infants, and has demonstrated why they are prioritizing a certain infectious disease.

Project Approach (25 points): Applicant describes a project plan that is feasible, responsive, and likely to increase the EPR capacity of the LHD to prioritize MCH populations. The project plan should include statements about how this will improve community resilience. Applicants should also demonstrate overall commitment, completeness in answering the questions, and submission of all required information and documents.

Organizational Capacity (25 points): Applicant has capacity to develop and implement EPR plans, exercises, and responses.

Selection Criteria

Commitment to Collaborate (20 points): Applicant demonstrates a commitment to collaborate across MCH, ID, and EPR departments. Note that lack of a pre-existing relationship among MCH, ID, and EPR departments is not a barrier to a successful application. If there is currently no coordination, we seek evidence of a commitment to collaborate either through the narrative or letters of commitment from department directors.

Commitment to Addressing Equity (10 points): All successful applications will have identified inequities within MCH populations, particularly among pregnant people and infants, and propose approaches that address these inequities.

Step 2: Start Your Application

- After selecting 'Apply Now', you will be taken to the application where you can begin filling out the required fields

The screenshot displays the NACCHO application portal interface. At the top, a navigation bar includes a logo and links for Home, My Account, About Us, Model Practices, and MRC Operational Readiness Awards. A sidebar on the left provides a user menu for Elana Filipos, with options for Home, My Applications (All (2), Incomplete (2)), My Profile, Admin Panel, and Log Out. The main content area shows the breadcrumb path: Home / My Applications / 3222 - New Application. The title of the application is "Demonstration Sites for Bridging Preparedness, Infectious Disease, Maternal-Child Health, and Birth Defects within Cities and Counties Project". A progress bar indicates the current step: Background Information → Statement of Need → Proposed Project Plan → LHD Capacity to Implement Approach → Budget Justification and Narrative →. Below the progress bar is a "File Upload" section. The main text describes the funding opportunity, stating that NACCHO, with support from the National Center on Birth Defects and Developmental Disabilities (NCBDDD) within the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), is pleased to offer a new funding opportunity designed to support local health departments (LHDs) in identifying emerging infectious disease threats that impact pregnant people and their infants and develop feasible action items to implement in their jurisdiction. It further details that NACCHO will award up to $20,000 to up to four health departments and will facilitate virtual action planning processes to support recipients to identify priorities for collaboration and take concrete steps to increase prioritization of pregnant people and infants over the course of the project period. NACCHO will facilitate the virtual action planning development and implementation process, providing both group and individually tailored technical assistance (TA) and resources to awardees, as well as fostering a community of peer-to-peer learning among awardees. This funding opportunity is part of NACCHO's Bridging Preparedness, Infectious Disease, Maternal-Child Health, and Birth Defects within Cities and Counties (MIP) Workgroup, which supports public health and clinical care partnerships at the local level to increase local jurisdictions' ability to protect, respond, and support pregnant people and their infants from emerging infectious disease threats. Selected awardees will be expected to participate in the MIP workgroup. A link is provided to view the full RFA, and an email address (efilipos@naccho.org) is listed for questions. At the bottom, there is a section titled "Organization Information" with a required field: "What is the name of your organization? *".

Step 3: Save Your Application
