In This Issue

Tips

Announcements

CALENDAR

National Preparedness Month: HBC Units Focus on Family and Personal Preparedness

In the United States, the second week in October is National Preparedness Month. The theme for 2021 is "Family and Personal Preparedness." The purpose of this month is to raise awareness about the importance of being prepared for emergencies. HBC Units can play a crucial role in promoting family and personal preparedness. This article will highlight some ways in which HBC Units can get involved.

Tips

- Tips on how to prepare for emergencies
- Information on resources available for HBC Units
- Activities for promoting family and personal preparedness
- Suggestions for engaging community members

Announcements

Congratulations to Recognized Units

The National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC) has recognized several HBC Units for their outstanding contributions to the community. These units have demonstrated exceptional commitment to improving the health of their communities.

NACCHO Resources Available for HBC Volunteers

NACCHO offers a variety of resources to support volunteers. These resources include tools, templates, and best practices for effectively engaging volunteers. Volunteers can access these resources through the NACCHO website.

Public Health Preparedness Summit

The 2021 Public Health Preparedness Summit will be held virtually on October 15-17. The summit is open to all interested individuals.

Capacity Building Awards

The Capacity Building Awards recognize outstanding contributions to the field of public health. NACCHO will announce the winners of the 2021 Capacity Building Awards at the Public Health Preparedness Summit.

To learn more and get involved, visit NACCHO's website at www.naccho.org.